The men under arrest that recently he had occasion to Four men were arrested Wednes are Joseph and Jerome Eck, who, it is claimed, have been running a "blind pig" at No. 10 West Michigan avenue. Several inmates were taken to headquarters but were released after getting their names leased after getting their names and addresses. Among those taken was the wife of Joseph Eck, who was locked up in the detention room until Wednesday evening, when she was released. The other two men arrested were Ed Robbins and Rufus Starks. At the home of Palking 210 Harrist street was Robbins, 310 Harriet street, was found 103 pints of beer, one half gallon of wine and one and a half gallons of alcohol.

Chief of Police Connors has susand finally decided to get a member of the state police to assist. He accordingly wrote to Colonel Roy Vandercook, who sent Sergeant George E. Karkeet here Tuesday. Karkeet, dressed like a bum, went into both places. He purchased a quart of liquor from Eck for $5, and also purchased a quart of moon-shine from Ed. Robbins, for which he paid $4. With this evidence he secured search warrants from Justice Stadtmiller and promptly noon Wednesday both places were raided and searched simultaneously. Officers Karkeet, Smith, Vay and Lawrence went to Robbins', while Chief Connors, Deputy Sheriff Robison and Officers Gale and Morey went to the Eck place. The front and root deep the control of t and rear doors were guarded and two men made the search. All inmates were taken to headquarters.

The officers stated that the liquor at Robbins' looked as though it was made from alcohol, red ink and water. Men who drink this stuff are doomed to certain death.

Chief Connors stated Wednesday that he hopes the circuit judge will sentence all of the men to state's prison if they are found guilty. The payment of a fine is no punishment for men of this type, he stated.

I'm telling you right now, Broughton, it's no use. I filed on the little Blueeyes claim over yonder in Twombly's cabin a long, long time before you ever saw or heard of it."

That remark of his carried things over the edge for me.

"See here, Bullerton," I said, and I suppose I stuck out my jaw at him as people say I do when I'm beginning to feel ugly, "there are limits, and I'll pay you the compliment of assuming that you are not quite a born fool. We are going to leave Miss Twombly out of it; completely and absolutely course: in a certain sense you are Twombly's guest, and in another you're his employer. But you'll notice that neither of these restrictions apply to me. Now, perhaps, you can understand just why you are obliged, in ordinary prudence, to leave the girl out of itand why I am not so obliged."

"She has already voted," he said coolly. Then: "You're not in the game, Broughton; you don't hold anything higher than a seven-spot, and you are bucking a straight flush. Do you take fifty thousand and vanish? That is the one live question of the moment."

"Very well; I'll give you another day to think it over; but I'm warning you here and now that the price will shrink. It is fifty thousand today, say up to sunset: tomorrow it will be forty thousand." I slid from the anvil and half unconsciously picked up the blacksmith's hand-hammer.

"You go straight to h-l," I said; and at that he left me. I sat down to try once more to think things out to some sort of an action Should I take Bullerton's fifty thousand and quit? Common sense said Yes, spelling it with a capital and underscoring it for emphasis. What was the use in hanging on? Hadn't we proved that the mine was undrainable, save, perhaps, at the enormous cost of driving an underrunning tunnel from a lower slope of the mountain?

I had just climbed down to this bottom round of the ladder of dejection when I heard a bit of noise and looked up to see a small, trim figure darken-

"Mr. Broughton-Stannie, are you hare?"

> CHAPTER IX. To Fish or Cut Bait.

It is nothing short of wonderful how the sourest grouch can sometimes be banished by a single word. That word "Stannie," you know; she had never called me that before; though her father had been using the familiar han-reservation. "Yes," I said, and jumped up and went to her. "Did you ever hear of such a thing as a bear with a sore head?" she asked, in the tone of a schoolma'am asking the dull boy if he'd ever beard of the letter "A." "Often," I admitted. "Well, isn't that the way you've been acting?"

"Haven't I some little cause?" "Maybe, of course, I'm willing to make some allowances. It does seem provoking that your grandfather should have left things in such a dreadful muddle."

"How much do you know about the muddle?" I asked.

"I know that old Mr. Dudley let, or partly let, a contract for the draining of the mine, to a man who was almost a total stranger to him."

I saw how it was. Bullerton, always readier to talk than a stuck pig is to "Not for anything you may say or bleed, had been giving her his own version of things. But I let that part

"Don't you like to work?"

"Why-e-e, I guess I'm like other folk stole that inspection motor at the An- pany. I've been having a bully good time hammering around this old bunch "Twombiy knows about that; and of junk with your father. Or I was having one until Satan came also."

"Meaning Mr. Bullerton?" "Quite so; meaning Mr. Bullerton, christened 'Charles.' " "Ought I to stay here and listen if you're going to say things about him?" "Not if you are going to marry him, you shouldn't."

"Well, why shouldn't I marry him if I want to? Hasn't he plenty of "Miss Twombly, herself, has the money? And haven't I told you that

"Humph!" said I; "when you talk that way you are saying out loud just what Lisette says to herself-only you don't mean it and she does. But tell me how did you get permission to come over here and talk with me?"

"Whose permission Daddy's?" "No; Bullerton's, of course."

"I don't have to ask it-yet." "Not yet, but soon," I grinned. "All things come to him-or her-who waits. Just the same, you shouldn't have come. It's cruelty to animals. After a man has traveled thousands of miles to sit at the feet of the one girl in the universe, only to find himself elbowed by a brown-whiskered jees-" "Hush!" she chided. "Can't you ever be serious? You are not sittles at anybody's feet. What are you go ing to do about the mine?" "Bullerton offered to unwater the Cinnabar if I'd deed him a bit more than a half interest—and possibly he'd still be willing to do that, which would mean that he'd form a stock company and freeze me out completely when he got good and ready."

"And what is the other way?" "He offers to buy the mine outright, just as it stands, for fifty thousand dollars." "But your grandfather paid nearly

"Even so. But, you see, in the present scrap I'm the under dog. The man you are going to marry has none of the I could picture the calm and collected nice little scruples in a business transway in which she would say, "Yes. action-if you'll permit me to go that Stannie: you've succeeded nicely in far. He even threatens to turn me financing the hats. But you know as over to the authorities for stealing well as I do that we couldn't buy hats that inspection car and getting it

"Oh, I don't believe he'd do that!" she deprecated.

"It is perfectly right and proper that you shouldn't think so-in the circumstances. Just the same, you'll pardon me if I say that I'm swearing continuously and prayerfully at the cfreumstances."

"You don's want me to marry money and have good clothes and all the other nice things, and travel and see the world, and all that?"

"No, by Jove! I want you to marry me. Her laugh was just a funny little gurgle. "Bluebeard!" she said, just like that. "And you haven't even killed Miss Randle yet! Thank you, ever so much; but I don't want to be one of several. Besides, you haven't any money.'

Talk of impasses and impossible situations! What could a man say, or hope to say, to such a girl as that! "Did you come over here just to torment me?" I rasped.

"Woof!" she shivered, "here comes the bear again!" and then, right smash out of a clear sky: "Kiss me-just once, Stannie-bear."

Did I? She was gasping a bit when she got up rather unsteadily to go back to the cabin across the dump head and wouldn't stay another minute, though I begged and pleaded with "No, indeed, Bluebeard man," she said with that queer little gurgle of a laugh. "I-I think I have found out what I wanted to. Goodby." And then, after I thought she was clean gone, she turned back to say, airily: "Oh, yes; I had almost forgotten what I came over here to tell you. You mustn't sell the Cinnabar, Stannie; not for any price that anybody might offer you. Goodby, again."

Can you beat it? When the good Lord made women He doubtless had many patterns; but I do believe the mold was broken and thrown away after this Jeanie girl had been fash-

To the Honorable Mayor and Common Council of the City of Ypsialtni.

We, your Special Assessors, to whom was referred the communication of F. Eugene Baker, relative to the Sewer Assessment of Lat. D., Normal Park Addition. Have had the matter under consideration and would respectfully report as follows:

We measured said Hamilton and Pearl Street Trunk Line Sewer including Wallace Boulevard. property in question Lat. D., Nor-mal Park Addition was at that time, October 6th, to October 15th inclusive, owned by R. W. Hemphill and was assessed to him. There was a considerable time between that measurement and the filing of same with the City Clerk on account of cost of construction. Said assessment was filed with the Clerk, Feb. 16, 1921 and approved by your Honorable Body March 21, 1921.

We find however, upon searching the records the County Records Office in Ann Arbor, that the said lot, D. Normal Park Addition, was transferred by R. W. Hemphill to F. Eugene Baker under date of October 28, 1920. We find also that the west part 50 feet thereof abutting Wallace Boulevard, of lot D. Normal Park Addition, was again transferred by Frank Eugene Baker to Henry R. Scovill, under date of Feb. 23rd, The above transfers were made but not known by your Special Assessors, one before we filed our report and one after we filed our report to the City Clerk.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The Event of the year

The Year End Sale

Begins Tuesday, Dec. 27th and closes Sat. Jan. 7 Eleven Days of Bargain Giving

Every year the YEAR END SALE becomes more popular with economically inclined women who appreciate its possibilities for saving in their buying. All the Fall you may have wanted a COAT, a SUIT or a DRESS or SHIRT, or perhaps a BLOUSE you cannot afford. This sale will make it very easy to afford them now.

Twenty thousand dollars' worth of women's wearables are offered in this sale-every article of The Mills Co.'s well known high standard—and prices have been placed on them to speedily dispose of the lot. Purchases from overstocked manufacturers have been added to the stock the last few days, thus giving a wider choice. If you have any garment needs you'll profit by looking at the bargain offerings this sale will offer you. Our twenty years of reputation for doing exactly as we advertise is your guarantee of the genuineness of our statements.

Try to come as early as possible while the assortments are at their best, for we wish you to have your share of the very unusual values which will be offered in this Year End Sale.

When Michigan apples are offered for sale in as good condition as the western fruit and in as concenient form to handle it will no longer be possible to dispose of the western fruit at a higher price. The Michigan product has to come into competition with western fruit not alone in this state but in all the surrounding state to which Michigan apples are shipped. At present a distinct advantage is being given the western competitor who is disposing of an inferior product be.

COLLEGE CHRISTMAS FROLIC

Thursday evening occurred the annual Christmas party at the Normal college. This has been a cusom for years at the college and the evening is given over to fun and frolic, both the students and faculty taking part. A large Christmas tree, electrically lighted, was placed on the campus, around which appropriate Christmas songs were sung. There was dancing on the walk in front of Pease auditorium and an old fashioned English Christmas celebration in the gymnasium. The affair was an enjoyable one and is looked forward to each

"Van" is a living example of service"—in fact that might well be is first name. His remarkable ability as an organizer and execu tive has been made great use of by every kind of a public service or-ganiaztion that inhabits his home down jobs that mean a lot of hard work and no cash reward, "Van" holds all the long distance records in this or any other state. In 1917 he was a charter member of the Ypsilanti Rotary club, was elected governor of the 9th district the ensuing year, served as a member of governor of the 9th district the ensuing year, served as a member of the boys' work committee of the International association, and is now chairman of the international committee on boys' work of the International association. There isn't room enough in this article to enumerate all of his welfare and public service jobs, but just to give an idea of his activities in this line. He is president of the Ypslanti. He is president of the Ypslanti Board of Commerce, vice-president of the National Association for Crippled Children, chairman of the Washtenaw County Red Cross, chairman of 9th district committee of Rotarians for Social Welfare of Children, president and organizer of the Ypsilanti Patriotic league, was secretary of the Washtenaw County War board, is a member of the Diocesan council of the Episcopal church for Michigan, is a bank director, and vice-president of the General Discount corporation of Detoit. And yet, whenever they want some effective work done that is for the public good they say "let 'Van' dot it,"—and "Van" does it and does it well.

His Pythian career started in Kalamazoo lodge No. 2 when he was initiated in that lodge on Oct. 13, 1898. When he moved to Ypsilanti in 1900 Queen City lodge was on its last legs, the membership having dwindled to only 20 Only two members has been initiated in four years. He helped to stir things up, and transferred his mem-bership in 1902 and served as C. C. in 1903 and at the end of his term the membership was 170. His good work attracted attention, and in 1904 the writer, who was then grand chancellor, appointed him on the grand chancellor in 1912 the chancellor, appointed him on the grand chancellor in 1913-14, and and credentials. His gental presence and Pythian enthusiasm kept him in the grand lodge, until in 1908 he was elected grand outer guard at Kalamazoo, where he first learned the Pythian lessons.
